

FINDINGS ON ICE

PARS FOUNDATION

LARS MÜLLER PUBLISHERS

Former gulags, prison camp # 15,
Krasnoyarsk region, Siberia, Russia

I only saw one tennis court. I asked who it was for. The prisoners, they said. So I asked if I could see them play. They were a bit put out by that but eventually they found two prisoners. Then they had to find tennis rackets for them, which took another half hour. They seemed happy but when I asked them where the balls were, even after another hour's search, they couldn't find any. So we had this ridiculous scene with me pretending to docu-photograph these two prisoners pretending to play tennis without any tennis balls.

